KILLINGS ARE TRACED

Band Leader Had Police Gun,
Detective Says

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Col. Lynn Black of the Ohio highway patrol declared today after lengthy questioning of James Dalhove, a Brady gang member, that the band of Indiana outlaws had nothing to do with the murder of Highway Patrolman George Conh, near Freeport, O.

Previously it had been reported that Dalhove in a lengthy confession made in Bangor, Maine, after Al Brady and Clarence Shaffer, Jr., other members of the gang, were killed, had attributed the murder to the desperadoes' deceptions.

Policeman's Gun Carried
State Detective Meredith Stewart, who participated in Tuesday's Bangor battle, declared Friday that when Brady died he was carrying the service revolver taken from State Policeman Paul Minneman, who was slain in a gun battle after the Brady outlaws had robbed the Goodland state bank. Stewart's statement emphasized the fact that the state is seeking to try Dalhove for the Minneman death.

Dalhove is wanted in Indianapolis for the shooting of Patrol Sergeant Richard Rivers.

While authorities studied chances for conviction Dalhove was held in jail on charges of robbing the Farmland, North Madison, and Woodland banks. He waived hearing before U. S. Commissioner Harold S. Young yesterday, signed commitment papers, and was led away in shackles under machine-gun guard.

JURY SEATED FOR MURDER TRIAL IN POISON MYSTERY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15.—(UP)—The state outlines to a jury of 11 women and one man today its case against Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, accused of poisoning her 78-year-old friend, Jacob Wagner, after he had made her heiress to his estate.

Mrs. Hahn, mother of a 12-year-old son, was indicted following an investigation of the mysterious deaths of a dozen elderly persons of her acquaintance. The state was expected to ask that she be sentenced to death.

Before testimony begins, Judge Charles S. Bell will rule on a defense motion that the jury be taken to view the home of Mrs. Hahn and Wagner. The state contends that a bottle of poison was found in her home after Wagner died.

Slays Wife, Sutor

MURDER charges have been drawn against the "Rev." Miller Otoman Johnson, 47-year-old independent preacher of Lexington, Ky., who shot and killed his estranged wife and an automobile salesman when he found them together in the Johnson home in Lexington. Relatives of the slain man, William Rue, 37, said he had been keeping company with Miss Lella Johnson, 32, a daughter of the minister, for more than a year and intended to marry her.

Notices were sent to 22 persons Thursday afternoon to report in common pleas court Monday as prospective jurors to hear the $15,000 damage action of Anna Marie Weicht, Columbus, against Homer Cromley, Walnut township, and Ira Merritt, a minor. The suit resulted from an auto collision in May, 1936, at the Jackson pike and Commercial Point roads.

Those drawn for jury duty are Daniel Reed and Orville Dountz, Scioto township; Mrs. Luther Dean, and Milton Fullen Muhlenberg township; Clarence McAbee, Wanda Wardell and Margaret Gray, Wayne township; H. W. Wardell, Everett Eakin and Ross Deyo, Darby township; Mrs. Guy Heffner, Saltcreek township; W. E. Valentine, Washington township; George Carle and Dorothy Hulse, Jackson township; Josie Noecker, Madison township; Charles Storer and Jennings Ogile, Monroe township; Elizabeth Rector, Deer creek township; Jane May, Perry township; Harold Pontius, Laura King and Eleanor Yates, Circleville.

FARMERS REPORT HUGE PUMPKINS NOT AVAILABLE

Are there any large pumpkins or squashes in Pickaway county this year? This "pie material" question is furrowing the brows of Pumpkin Show officials. P. R. Hosler, chairman of the pumpkin and squash department, says he has not received a single report of any large pumpkins or squashes to date.

Pumpkins being hauled through the city to canning factories have been small forerunners to previous years. F. K. Blair, Pickaway county agent, who keeps a close check on all crops, reports there are plenty of pumpkins, but all are small.

Some of the largest pumpkins are usually grown in the river lowlands, Mr. Hosler said, and several of the prize pumpkin growers told him their crop was lost in the Spring floods.

Mayor W. J. Graham has made certain there will be plenty of pumpkins on display. He contacted a canning factory and if necessary trucks will deliver a supply from that source.

Due to the condition of the pumpkin crop this year, officials urge farmers to cooperate in supplying plenty of entries for the exhibit.

Shanghai Wins Respite After Terrific Battle

Chinese, Japanese Forces Exhausted as Fight Ends Without Either Gaining

SHANGHAI, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Chinese and Japanese troops fought to a standstill today and Shanghai was granted a respite after the most terrible hours of the two month battle for the city.

Men on both sides were utterly exhausted. They had fought hand to hand with every weapon they had. Late today they carried on their war dispiritedly. Japanese airplanes half-heartedly dropped a few bombs at four points in the Chinese lines in and around the city. But only out in the Woosung creek area, where Japanese are trying to establish an advanced line, was there a semblance of the savage fighting when, all through last night, Shanghai was terrified by the firing and out along the front men fought hand to hand for hours—without result except to increase the casualty list.

Normally, the fire of artillery and machine guns is heard at all hours. Today scarcely a shot was heard.

All that army spokesmen had to say was that ferocious attacks by the other side had been repulsed and that now the front was quiet.

Fire Evacuates Marines
U. S. Marine headquarters announced that marines billeted at the Nagai Wata Kaisha cotton mill in the American defense sector of the international settlement were forced to evacuate late Thursday when a bomb or shell set fire to the upper rooms of the building and firemen flooded the marines' quarters putting out the fire.

It was announced today that China's most famous sing-song girls would broadcast tonight and tomorrow night, and radio listeners were invited to ask for numbers in return for contributions to war funds.

T. V. Soong, chairman of China's Liberty Loan committee, asserted today that more than 250,000,000 Yuan worth of Liberty bonds had been subscribed at par—A total of $75,000,000. Soong's statement was in answer to Japanese allegations that the loan subscriptions were disappointing.

JEWELL ELECTED AS CHAIRMAN OF BOARD OF PAROLE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Harrison W. Jewell, of Delaware, was elected chairman of the new state board of paroles and pardons at its first meeting this afternoon. N. Craig McBride, of Hillsboro, was named vice chairman.

Both are former Common Pleas court judges.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—(UP)—The Ohio board of parole met today for induction of three new members and selection of a chairman.

The members to be sworn in are: Harrison W. Jewell, Delaware, Republican and former common pleas judge, to succeed Leland S. Dougan who was dismissed by Governor Davey at the suggestion of the attorney general.

N. Craig McBride, Hillsboro, Democrat, former common pleas judge, to succeed Charles Sharp, Ravenna, who resigned to accept the newly-created position as supervisor of state welfare institutions.

Frank Sotak, Cleveland Republican, an attorney, to succeed Charles Haslop, Newark, who becomes chief of the combined forces of the division of probation and parole and the investigators of the board.

The remaining member is Rev. Reverdy Ransom, Wilberforce, bishop of the Afro-American Methodist church.

Receive Approval

BULLETIN
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 15.—(UP)—The Committee for Industrial Organization proposed to the American Federation of Labor today that a meeting of representatives of the warring unions be held the week of Oct. 25 to agree on a peace conference.

BULLETIN
DENVER, Colo., Oct. 15.—(UP)—George L. Harrison, chairman of the American Federation of Labor peace committee, said today that the C. I. O. proposal for a committee of 10 to discuss a peace movement, "seems to have merit."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 15.—(UP)—John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, determines today whether his organization will accept a conditional American Federation of Labor proposal for conferences to end the present split in organized labor.

The counter proposal was first framed and approved in the federation's executive council and then approved unanimously by the full convention. It represented a reversal of the first attitude of the federation leaders toward the C. I. O. conference proposal. President William Green and other leaders had rejected it, terming it "insincere" and propaganda intended for the rank and file of C. I. O. unions.

Aides Summoned
Then the federation's telegram was received here, Lewis immediately called Phillip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Textile Workers Organizing Committee, and Lee Pressman, C. I. O. general counsel, into conference.

After they had talked for a long time, Lewis announced: "I will have nothing to say tonight. The conference will act tomorrow."

The decision will end the C. I. O.'s first war council. It was indicated that before the delegates leave for their homes, they will be asked to approve a resolution supporting President Roosevelt's proposal to establish a quarantine of aggressor nations.

The conference also will be asked (Continued on Page Eight)

GOVERNOR GRANTS FULL PARDON FOR KENYON PAINTER

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Governor Davey today has granted a full pardon to Kenyon V. Painter, former Cleveland Union Trust Co director who was convicted of misapplication of the bank's funds.

Painter, who began serving a 1 to 30 year sentence on June 28, has been in a Columbus hospital for several weeks, said by his physician to be in imminent danger of death.

Mrs. Barrare screamed and swooned. The next thing she

Fiance of Girl Held in Death

AUTHORITIES investigating the mysterious slaying of Melba Moore, 16-year-old South Bend, Ind., schoolgirl, shot to death as she rode with two youths on a lonely road, arrested Adolph Stopper, 20, described as the girl's fiance, on an open charge. Stopper and Charles Walton, who were with the girl when she was slain, had told police that a man whose car had broken down had fired on them when they stopped to offer aid. The girl's father urged police to release Stopper.

Village of Atlanta Kept Busy by Farms Project

Operations of Resettlement Work Centered in Perry Township; Many Buildings Painted, Remodeled

Atlanta, enterprising village in Western Pickaway county, has become one of the busiest beehives of activity in Ohio since the federal government started its Rural Resettlement program on thousands of acres of land purchased in Pickaway, Ross, and Fayette counties.

Headquarters for the Scioto Farms, name given the central Ohio resettlement project, is in Atlanta with Kenneth Browning, project supervisor, maintaining his office there. Supplies for construction of farmsteads are being stored and made in the village.

Many visitors from far and near travel through the project site daily. Civic pride has resulted in many of the Atlanta residents having their properties painted and re-decorated. In the north-end of the village the home of C. P. Clements and family is being remodeled; in the business district, the B. C. Hughes general store has been dressed up with coats of red and white paint; in the industrial part of the village, the Groce elevator and office have been treated to a coat of aluminum paint.

Charles Drake, another of the village's enterprising residents, saw the necessity for a modern restaurant to accommodate visitors to the town. He and Mrs. Drake, Mrs. Florence Farmer, and Mrs. Susie Irvin are conducting an up-to-date eating house in the center of Atlanta.

The project is moving ahead with properties to be assigned soon to farmers accepted by officials of the Scioto Farms program. Applicants, of which there are hundreds, are being checked carefully in an effort to obtain the best persons possible as residents of Pickaway and the adjoining counties.

It is probable that some of the farms, especially those in the Immet tract in Wayne township, will be occupied before Dec. 1.

MACHINE GUN ARRIVES FOR CITY POLICEMEN

The Thompson sub-machine gun, recently purchased for Circleville's police department, arrived Thursday afternoon.

The fines were imposed by J. S. Hoover, justice of peace of Harrison township. Squire Hoover said they were brought into court after the auto in which they were riding went through a fence on the Charles Cromley farm, near Ashville. The car overturned, but both men escaped injury.

Hoover said the two took Fout's father to work in the car and then made a series of short trips during the day, narrowly missing pedestrians and other cars. He was told both drove the auto. The men were arrested by Ira Reese, constable, Robert Walden, marshal, and Cecil Scott, deputy marshal. Reese filed the charges.

ASHVILLE YOUTHS GO TO JAIL FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Harrison Pennington, 20 Ashville and Gilbert Fout, 21, of Harrison township, were brought to the county jail Thursday night after failure to pay fines of $25 and costs each on charges of reckless driving.

The fines were imposed by J. S. Hoover, justice of peace of Harrison township. Squire Hoover said they were brought into court after the auto in which they were riding went through a fence on the Charles Cromley farm, near Ashville. The car overturned, but both men escaped injury.

ISLAND ZONE WATCHED

Balearic Fortification Studied
By Powers

PARIS, Oct. 15.—(UP)—France and Italy may make mutual concessions of importance in an effort to prevent a final break over the problem of foreign volunteers in the Spanish civil war, it was reported today.

A situation that seemed almost hopeless and led France and Great Britain to consider the advisability of a peaceful, symbolic occupation of the fortified island of Minorca in the Balearics group was brightened by the following reports:

1.—That France, as a final concession to Premier Benito Mussolini, might agree to recognize the Spanish Nationalists as belligerents coincident with the actual start of withdrawal of volunteers from Spain.

2.—That Mussolini himself had decided, on his own initiative, to withdraw 5,000 of his troops from Spain soon.

The second report was accompanied by the assertion that as the result of any Italian withdrawal of men, for whatever reason, the powers might be expected to agree quickly on recognition of the Nationalists as belligerents.

Authoritative estimates of the present diplomatic situation, in which the powers were preparing for Saturday's non-intervention committee meeting at London, indicated:

1.—That France's gravest concern now is the presence of Italian forces on the island of Majorca, near Minorca. The French government is convinced, the United Press learned, that Italy has 200 airplanes at Majorca and anywhere up to 20,000 troops who have been concentrated on the island as a possible landing force when the Nationalists make their expected drive to cut off Valencia from Barcelona and thus separate the two great Loyalist strongholds on the East coast.

2.—That Britain is only incidentally concerned over the Majorca situation but is in turn most gravely concerned over the big scale reinforcement of Italy's fighting force in Libya, lying between Egypt and French Tunisia. It was thought when the reinforcement first started that it was aimed against France. But it is indicated that Britain and Egypt are

W.P.A. Project

A project that is expected to give 14 county women work for the next seven months was opened Thursday in the county relief office, 401 E. Main street, under supervision of Mrs. Beulah Madison.

The project is a continuation of book repair work with textbooks of Circleville and Pickaway county schools to be handled. A book repair project was carried on once before for Circleville schools. When the work started 2,000 books were to be fixed; when it ended 4,450 volumes had been handled.

The book repair work is financed by $9,876 set aside by W.P.A. for the job. When this fund was announced two weeks ago no local authorities were able to announce for what it was to be spent.

MAN WHO CLAIMS TITLE AS "OHIO'S OLDEST" IS DEAD

BAINBRIDGE, O., Oct. 15. — Ross County mourned its oldest citizen today—John Henry Davis, who, at 112, claimed to be Ohio's oldest resident.

Born May 23 1825, when John Quincy Adams, sixth President, was in the White House, Davis claimed he voted in practically every election since 1846. An ardent Democrat, born in Campbell County, Virginia, Davis was particularly enthusiastic about the Roosevelt regime.

"You can't put on weight and brains too," Davis said in an interview a few months ago. Other Davis aphorisms: "Christianity will come out on top, it always has." "I think too many women run for office without knowing enough about the business." "If a woman can't cook, I wouldn't have any use for her as a wife."

Davis's grandparents were Virginia slaveholders and true Jeffersonian Democrats. When he was just a small boy, the family moved to Indiana, and Davis said late in life he could well remember seeing horses pull an early railway train up a steep incline near Madison, Indiana.

Euchre and visiting with friends and relatives (he leaves 12 sons and daughters, 49 grandchildren, 108 great-grandchildren) constituted his chief pleasures late in life. For the last three years he had been confined to his wheelchair because of an injury received in a fall while fishing.

Davis made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Clara Beatty.

Services were conducted Friday at 2 o'clock at the White Oak Church, near Latham, Ohio.

Harold Bowers and family have "moving day" on their list along with the many others who have to find new living quarters. About the first of the coming month they will remove from the Steele property to the dwelling recently purchased by Mrs. Julia Weaver and known as the Hudson property on East street. The Steeles are coming back to town from Madison township. "It's on the boards" for Al Kauber and family and Donald Littell and wife to do the moving act tomorrow, Littells coming to town and Kaubers to the country—exchanging places.

Big Corn Stories

At assembling meeting yesterday morning at "headquarters" (Tom's) some big corn yield stories were on tap and we volunteered the information that Ira Marshall in Hardin county territory had, a few years ago, raised 1680 bushels of corn on an official measured plot of ground containing an even ten acres. This is an official record and no tinge of a "tall story" about it. But had the fertilizer used on this ten acres been paid for, the receipts from the sale of the crop would not have paid the bill. It was an experimental plot and the large amount of fertilizer used was donated, so the boys who say they know tell us.

Election Race Quiet

With the election of local officials only a few days on ahead, it would seem that there would be some "stir in the political camp," but not a whimper from anyone, at least, not out loud. There may be plenty going on "under the surface" but "pump" as much as you please, you get not a word for your trouble. With the large number who want to be township trustee of this Harrison township, and the sizable crowd who think they are headed toward the village council house, one would suppose there would at least be a start toward some "noise" about who is to be who. And we are not forgetting that there are two candidates for village mayor and three for marshal. And the township promise a race between Dan Boone and Jimmy Hoover. And this reminds us that up in Madison there are two candidates for township clerk, the two being the incumbent, Errol Decker, and Archie Peters. And so far as we are able to learn the good people of Walnut and Scioto townships are "being good," too, and nary a hound is heard from there. We'll try and keep posted and later tell you which way the political wind is blowing, if any.

Snow in Village

Well, it actually did snow here yesterday morning and it was on the 14th of the month. So we know "for a certainty" just how many snows there are ahead for the Winter. Yes, you're wrong.

This was at Kraft's restaurant yesterday when we spied out these boys among the rest and hoped to get "something different," news. They told us in a very kindly way they were working out east of Ashville on a through, underground telephone cable and were hunting injured places in the pipe caused by "electrolysis" and no wonder there was trouble, if it had a thing like that. The boys said their home is in Columbus and that they had had several years with the phone company and never had had an accident, not even in their climbing pole days.

MacMURRAY AND EVANS

Fred MacMurray and Madge Evans are the stars of the Radio Theatre on Monday, Oct. 18, and the play is the favorite "Up Pops the Devil." It is a comedy and was a big success on the New York stage and in the movies too. Produced by Cecil B. DeMille, "Up Pops the Devil" will be broadcast over the Columbia network at 9 p. m. (EST).

This play is the story of the Merricks, a young New York couple who can't get any work done because their Greenwich Village neighbors insist on running a continuous party at their apartment. Steve Merrick, the likable but very human husband, is played by Fred MacMurray. His wife, Anne, is played by Madge Evans. Steve has been trying to write novels in his spare time but the visiting neighbors don't give him

SECURITY BOARD ALLOWS FUNDS FOR OHIO'S USE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15 — The Social Security board has certified to the secretary of the treasury a grant of $325,367.33 for Ohio for aid to dependent children for the quarter ending Dec. 31. Benedict Crowell, regional director of Region V which includes Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, announced today.

Under this plan Ohio has steadily extended its program for aiding dependent children. During August of this year 26,750 children in 9,809 families were given assistance. The average grant per family was $35.04. In September of last year 21,300 children were assisted with an average grant per family of $24.67 being made. During the next quarter it is estimated that 27,000 children will be given financial aid.

Since Ohio's plan was approved by the board July 21, 1936, $1,679,845.27 has been granted to the state.

much time for it. Finally Steve and Anne decide that he will quit his job, gave full time to writing. She will support the family with her job as a dancer in a chorus.

The plan sounded good when they talked it over but it never works out every well. Steve doesn't get much work done because the interruptions keep up all day long and Anne soon gets tired of supporting both of them. That leads to a fight but since the play is a comedy the fight has a happy ending.

Steve and Anne Merrick provide ideal parts for Fred MacMurray and Madge Evans, who have always been favorite Hollywood portrayals of the younger generation. Both MacMurray and Miss Evans have been starred in Radio Theatre performances before.

MAN CONVICTED OF AUTO DEATH TO WIN PAROLE

Frank Huston, of Columbus,
To Be Released From Reformatory Dec. 20

SENTENCED BY ADKINS

Wreck South of Circleville
Fatal to Youth, 18

Frank Huston, 1353 Carrie avenue, Columbus, sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory for a term of one to 20 years on a second degree manslaughter charge on Nov. 13, 1936, was granted a parole Friday by the Ohio Board of Parole. His parole is effective Dec. 20.

Huston's sentence resulted from the traffic death of Lawrence Saylor, 18, of Monroe, Mich., on Sept. 27, 1936. Huston was charged with driving when intoxicated when his car and one in which Saylor was riding collided on Route 23 two miles south of Circleville.

Huston's case and sentence are believed to have been the first in central Ohio under the second degree manslaughter law, involving a person who unintentionally kills while breaking any law on the state's highways.

The Ohio board paroled 75 inmates of the reformatory at Mansfield, two conditional releases were granted, and 177 cases continued.

One Fairfield countian, Leroy Cook, sentenced for breaking and entering, will be paroled Dec. 20. Thomas Mitchell, sentenced for forgery, and William Monroe, for assault to rob, both of Fayette county, will receive paroles on the same date. Beryl Mankins, of Ross county, is paroled on the same date. He was sentenced for auto stealing.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Machine guns blaze death from roaring planes as U. S. Border Patrol officers, in swift pursuit ships, battle a desperate gang of border smugglers in Columbia's highly-dramatic "Criminals of the Air," which opened today at the Cliftona Theatre on a double bill with Gene Autry in Public Cowboy No. 1.

Charles Quigley, as the undercover government officer who camouflages his secret service work by posing as a commercial pilot of a trans-border "honey-moon plane," is splendid in the leading masculine role. Rosalind Keith, leading lady, scores a triumph in her clever blend of swift action and gentle romance as the young newspaper woman who falls in love with Quigley in spite of the fact that she suspects him of being involved in the smuggling.

The colorful Mexican border setting of the story, with its romantic elements of runaway marriages and picturesque cafe life, is enhanced by musical and dancing sequences in which Rita Hayworth is featured as a floorshow entertainer. She is exceptionally fine.

SECRET SERVICE MEN ARREST TWO FOR BOGUS MONEY

TOLEDO, Oct. 15 — (UP) — Secret service operatives who held two men here on counterfeiting charges, said today the arrests would check a flow of counterfeit $20 bills in the Toledo area which has been prevalent for the last three weeks.

Held on the counterfeiting charges were Leo David Fonner, alias David Ward and Edward C. Webb, alias Edward C. Evans, both of Toledo.

Ira I. Brought, government agent, said more than $1,200 in fraudulent $20 notes were found in Fonner's possession. Both are held under $10,000 bond each. Webb has been previously sentenced to the penitentiary in connection with a post office robbery at Dayton, Brought said.

The referendum election will take place on the day of the regular election.

'Pork Chop Strike' Cuts Prices of Retail Meats

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—(UP)—A housewives "pork chop strike" is forcing meat prices down, G. W. Kaiser, representative of 2,000 Chicago butchers, announced today.

Kaiser, secretary of the Retail Meat Dealers Association, said meat prices generally will drop 10 percent within a week.

"Prices on all but the choicest cuts of beef will fall," he predicted. "Pork prices already have fallen and others will follow suit within a few days."

Kaiser said that with meat prices at current high levels, the

ADMISSION TICKET TO 1864 PARTY RECALLED

An admission ticket to a Ladies' Leap Year party held in the Pickaway House, Jan. 19, 1864, is in the possession of Roy Stout, 654 N. Court street.

Mr. Stout says the ticket was wives "just won't buy anything but soup meat and hamburger."

The movement is unofficial but widespread, he said.

One wife who ordered a "couple of pork chops" said her butcher told her it was his first pork chop sale in days.

Other wives, selected at random, told the United Press they have cut down on meats, eat more canned goods, vegetables, and eggs. Several said they used to buy meats liberally but purchase one meat's supply at a time now.

A United Press survey showed recently that meat prices throughout the nation are higher than at any time since 1929. Kaiser said that in Chicago round steak, sirloin, and porterhouse made the biggest jumps. Spareribs, leg of lamb and club steaks were not far behind.

Since that time, however, pork loins have dropped from 31 cents to 25 cents a pound.

"The butcher already has begun to pass this eight-cent saving on to his customers," Kaiser said.

Kaiser said that although the down movement will be general, it will not include the choicest cuts of beef. The beef supply still is low because of the droughts and resulting feed shortages of 1934, 1935 and 1936. This year's abundant feed supply will not react on meat prices until next year, he said.

Chicago meat buyers, according to Kaiser, are paying 45 to 48 cents a pound for sirloin steak which sold for 38 cents last year. Round steak that cost 29 cents in 1936 costs 35 cents today.

given to him by Homer Holloway, of Evansville, Ind., his brother-in-law, a former Circleville resident. Mr. Stout wonders if any local residents remember the event.

VALIDITY OF OGRIN ACT IS CONTESTED IN COURT ACTION

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15 — (UP) — A suit to test the validity of the Ogrin Act, passed last April, providing for refunding of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes paid since June 1930, was filed today in the Ohio Supreme court.

The Cleves-North Bend Building and Loan Co., of Hamilton county filed the action in mandamus against George Guckenberger, auditor, and Joseph Berning, treasurer of Hamilton county.

The two officials, holding that the Ogrin act is invalid, had refused to refund $13.12 in interest and penalties in 1931 on real estate in Hamilton county by the company.

GENTLEMEN, WE GIVE YOU THE MOST MODERN CHASSIS IN THE WORLD

Under the new beauty of Buick, modern engineering makes history, co-starring the DYNAFLEX ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING

WHAT HAPPENS inside the 1938 Buick engine happens nowhere else in the world.

That is not advertising language, it is cold-steel engineering fact.

Speeding through the raceways of the intake manifold, the fuel mixture vapor hurricanes into the cylinders at speeds around 250 miles an hour.

As it sweeps past streamline valve contours, a scientifically designed Turbulator, built into the piston face, flings it into airswirls of terrific turbulence.

The spark that leaps through that compact storm-center sets off a flashing cyclone of power, exploding with tornadoic force!

Sitting in the driver's seat you become aware of power that is livelier and more brilliant because gasoline is giving up more performance than it ever gave up to motorists before!

TO MATCH this incomparable stride, Buick engineers now give you a kind of springing you will likewise find on no other car in the world.

Poised on jarless coils of easy-flexing steel, Buick floats free of bobble, jar, chatter, jounce.

The car will not over-steer or under-steer—skidding, even on icy highways, is blessedly reduced.

Rear tires no longer scuff half their life away through power-wasting wheel-slip.

Through winter and summer, without need of grease and without "seize" from rust, dirt, water or ice, springs keep their gentle, even cushioning for the life of the car.

YES, IT IS a great story, the story of these twin engineering triumphs in the 1938 Buick.

So great a story that it obscures half a score of other advances, themselves enough to make any car a wonderful buy.

We invite you to learn more about them this week at any Buick showroom.

OPEN LETTERS

TO CIRCLEVILLE CITIZENS

FRIENDS: Circleville and Pickaway county are on the eve of another Pumpkin Show. All details have been completed, the curtain comes up at noon Wednesday, and for the remainder of that day and for the next three days the carnival spirit will prevail. Circleville will be host to thousands of visitors, and I am willing to predict that Circleville will do itself proud, as it always has done. The Pumpkin Show is a community institution. Its success depends on the co-operation of every resident of the city and county. Be friendly; thrust out the glad hand, and enjoy yourselves as much as you possibly can. The 1937 Pumpkin Show is Circleville's thirty-fourth, and each year has seen developments and additions that have made the show Ohio's outstanding community celebration. Drum corps competition has been added to make Thursday's night celebration more interesting; a bench show for dogs from all over Ohio has been arranged; one of the finest saddle horse shows to be seen anywhere is offered at the lighted high school athletic field; a pulling contest for fine teams will be conducted. The parades promise to be spectacular. The "Miss Circleville" Pumpkin Show" event will be staged the first night, with the Industrial parade being booked on Thursday afternoon, the Baby show and parade on Friday afternoon, with the Mardi Gras on Friday evening, the Pet parade Saturday afternoon, and the Old Vehicle event on Saturday night with winners of prizes in previous events to follow behind the latter entries. Exhibits of fine vegetables, fruits; beautiful fancywork, art, and flowers, samples of the best pastries made in Pickaway county; the largest pumpkins in Ohio, and scores on scores of other interesting exhibits will be provided for Pumpkin Show visitors. There is the Junior Fair, and there are the rides and free attractions. Ohioans, and residents of many other states, know that the Circleville Pumpkin Show cannot be matched in any state in the Union. The persons who should be most proud of the annual festival are those right here at home, and it is up to them to get into the spirit of the occasion, put their shoulders to the wheel, and push all their collective abilities to make it successful.

TO HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

STATE EMPLOYEES: Pickaway county commissioners received without enthusiasm your letter informing them that funds are not available for construction of a traffic light at the dangerous intersection west of Circleville where Routes 22 and 104 cross. It does appear strange that the Ohio highway department with all its millions to be spent annually does not have money to help in an effort to save lives of persons menaced every time they cross this intersection. There are warning signs on both highways approaching the intersection, but many who travel the roads often say that the signs are so near the crossing that motorists strange to Pickaway county are almost at the danger point before they see the warnings. Although the letter to the commissioners declared that funds are not available, there was a note of hope in the communication since a pledge that a survey will be made at the crossing was enclosed. Countians hope, and believe, that persons responsible will take whatever steps are needed to right the situation at 104 and 22 as soon as it is at all possible to do so.

TO SHOW VISITORS

FRIENDS: Thousands of persons will come to this city next week during the Pumpkin Show. Members of the city police department, sheriff's department and state highway patrol will be kept on the jump taking care of traffic and handling the numerous other details incident to a huge celebration. There are many things visitors should consider. Homes and outbuildings should be properly locked before the family leaves to attend the show. Drive carefully, obey traffic regulations and observe highway signs. Park your car correctly and see that it is properly locked. Do not leave articles in your car that invite theft. In case anything is stolen from your auto notify officers as quickly as possible. Call on them in case of any emergency. All officers are in constant contact with their headquarters through the state highway patrol broadcasting station. All main roads into Circleville will be patrolled, and these cruisers will be in contact with the broadcasting station. Officers have made every effort to make your trip to the Pumpkin Show safe. Observe their suggestions and give them your co-operation.

TO CHARLES MILLER

DEMOCRAT: Your election as president of the Pickaway Democratic Club is a tribute to the work you have done for the organization. The club has done much for the good of the party since it was formed a few years ago, and I hope you concentrate all your efforts on maintaining the standing it has when compared with other county Democratic units in Ohio.

CIRCUITEER

TO BUSINESSMEN

RETAILERS: Those of you who missed the Retail Merchants' association dinner Tuesday evening failed to participate in one of the finest gatherings of its kind held in Circleville in many years. It was pleasing to see more than 50 of the city's businessmen seated side by side, exchanging greetings, comparing notes, discussing questions of the day, and commenting on many topics of interest to them all. The dinner meeting, during which plans for Fall events were discussed, brought out a splendid crowd, and resulted in much progress being made toward a unified and ever-functioning association. Such an organization means much to the success of Circleville and its trading area.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

The United States supreme court is generally considered in Washington to have side-stepped the issue of Hugo L. Black's constitutional right to a seat on its bench.

New Dealers are glad that the court did so. Many of them, however, confidentially admit that the high tribunal did dodge.

Two questions were raised:

1. Black voted, as a senator, to permit aged supreme justices to retire on full pay, which they had not previously been permitted to do. Wasn't this equivalent to voting for an increase in their emoluments? If so, it is agreed that he was debarred from accepting a position the emoluments of which he had voted to increase.

2. When Justice Willis Van Devanter retired did his retirement create an actual supreme court vacancy? Legal critics draw a distinction between a retirement and a resignation. Resignation implies that the quitting incumbent permanently is out. But retirement, according to numerous authorities, leaves him still subject to recall, as an army officer remains subject to recall, in emergency, from the reserves.

QUESTIONS UNANSWERED

The supreme court answered neither of these questions. They were asked by two different individuals:

Albert Levitt, a former assistant attorney general, and Patrick Henry Kelly, a Boston lawyer.

The supreme court held that neither Kelly nor Levitt had suffered interest in the matter to entitle him to be answered, or even to be listened to argumentatively.

WHERE MATTER STANDS

The supreme court's position, as legalists interpret it, is that only one person is entitled to answers to the questions asked by Kelly and Levitt—and that is the attorney general of the United States.

Well, no one expects that such queries will be put by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. Thus the supreme court simply waives them aside, for as long as, anyway, as a New Deal attorney general is in office. The supreme court does not say that Black is entitled to sit, except the attorney general—who, at present, will not do it.

BLACK TO BE CHALLENGED?
Specific cases may arise in which a federal judge's impartiality may be questioned.

In the lower courts, in such instances, the judge's habit is to say, "All right; since you distrust me, I'll grant you a change of venue," and the litigation passes from his to other hands.

But the supreme court has no other court to which to transfer doubtful cases.

Now and then, indeed, a supreme court justice, believing he is suspected of prejudice, will pass that case up entirely, leaving his fellow justices to deal with it, without his voice.

Justice Black, however, probably will be accused of prejudice with tiresome regularity.

OR WILL IT BE FORGOTTEN?

But that is a surmise. Here is another one:

Attorney General Cummings, to be sure, will not resurrect Albert Levitt's and Patrick Henry Kelly's embarrassing interrogations; yet suppose that, at some future juncture, another attorney general presses them.

Then all the previous decisions Black has participated in will be clouded.

It is not altogether an issue of today.

CHAPTER 28

THEN A WEEK-END intervened between Adams' queer actions. Tim spent it, as he now often did, in London, and on Monday morning he drove straight from town to his surgery. He did not exchange more than a dozen words with Adams during the day. Since Esther's death he had formed the habit of taking his lunch in the town, and as he had arranged to dine informally with Harold Arkwright at an early hour in the evening, he did not get back to The Wilderness at all until a little after half past 10.

As he crossed the gravel drive after putting away his car, he noticed that the light was burning in the billiard room. He hung up his overcoat and went along to investigate. Going through the little conservatory connecting the main building with the billiard room, he became aware of the click of the balls. It gave him a most curious feeling—as if he were an intruder in someone else's house.

He opened the door. As he had surmised, it was Adams. The shaded lights were concentrated on the green cloth, and Adams was about to make a stroke. He could not have failed to hear the noise made by Tim's entry, but he made no sign. He completed a cannon from hand, which left the balls bunched together against the top cushion, and only then looked up.

"Good evening, sir," he said. "Hope you don't mind me having a knock up?"

His voice was rather thick. Tim at once realized he had been drinking. Yet his manner was not disrespectful. But it was peculiar; it was as though he had been warmed into a conditional geniality, which he would maintain so long as nobody crossed him. He was smiling, but there was a watchful look in his eyes, suggesting that for all his good fellowship, he was ready to take offense on the smallest provocation. Tim had encountered a good many drunks of this type in the army, and he thought he knew how to handle them. It was certainly no time for recrimination, unless he was prepared for a scene.

"Glad to see you enjoying yourself, Adams," he said mildly.

"That's all right, then," Adams moved round to the top of the table, chalking his cue and throwing at the balls. "Trouble about that drop cannon, it's a gamble," he said. "You may find a dozen nurseries on, or you may run into a cover like this here."

He raised the butt end of his cue. Now for some people it is genuinely possible to play a better game of billiards when slightly under the influence of liquor than when sober. The loss in exactitude is compensated for by the increase in confidence, which is more than half the battle. But the case here, the most difficult in the game, requiring the most delicate precision in execution, is not subject to this rule. Adams made a bad miss of it. The end of his cue kicked off his ball and came into violent contact with the table. The cloth was not cut, but the cue tip came off.

"Blas!" said Adams. He dabbed at the cloth with his finger. "That's always liable to happen. Look here, it's no fun playing by oneself. What'd you say to a couple of hundred up, sir? I'll give you a hundred."

Tim realized he had to play or have a row. Physically timid, he shirked an encounter with the man in his present condition. He would defer a consideration of the larger aspects of the situation until tomorrow.

"All right," he said. "Will you break?"

"O. K.," replied Adams. He selected another cue, squinted down it at arm's length, and ran it half a dozen times through his fingers. "Pleasure to play on this table of yours," he added, with condescension. "It's old, but real class. Not that you couldn't do with a new set of cushions. But you can play real billiards on it."

As Tim had surmised, it was Adams not like The Goose Quill. I've always said so." "You know it of old, then?" said Tim.

"Lord yes. Must have played on it hundreds of times. When you were out to dinner, mostly. You didn't know that, did you?"

"I can't say I did."

"Always left it in apple pie order, though. Nothing for you to complain about. . . . Look here, Mr. Kennedy, we'd better have something on it. Quidd about your mark? Or 10 bob?"

"I would prefer 10 bob." Tim's role of good-humored indulgence was becoming harder to sustain. "I don't claim to be in your class, you know."

"Well, I'm giving you a hundred." They played for about 10 minutes. Then, after making a break of 27, Adams reverted to the servant. "Can I get you a drink, sir?" he asked. "Thirsty game this."

"Not for me, thanks," said Tim. "But help yourself."

"Thanks, I will." There was a decanter and syphons in a small cupboard in the room. Adams helped himself to about four fingers, and splashed in a little soda. "Here goes!" he said.

It was Tim's turn. He shaped to make an easy in off the white to a top pocket. "Here, wait a minute," said Adams. "If you play that shot you'll only have the white left to play with. Take the red, left-hand side low down, not too hard, and you'll have a nice game on." Tim tried the shot recommended. His ball rocked in the pocket but did not fall.

"Hard cheese," said Adams. "Trouble is you got on too much. That's what's wrong with you inexperienced players. If a shot needs side, you always try to crowd on too much."

They played on. Adams continued to give advice, but Tim generally broke down when he took it. He began to realize that this was his opponent's intention.

The advice was good for a player of a fair degree of skill, but it usually involved playing a hard shot for position in preference to an easy one for a certain score, and Tim was just not good enough. All the same, he did fairly well, pushing his score forward by little breaks of 10 or so, while Adams seemed to have lost touch and broken down at the simplest shoes.

When the score stood at 150-69 in Tim's favor, Adams grumbled. "Can't get going at all. . . . Look here, I like being up against it, what'd you say to doubling the stake?"

"All right," Tim replied complacently. It occurred to him that he had Adams where he wanted him; that last drink had clearly put him off his game, and it was a good opportunity to teach him a lesson. . . . He would return the sovereign the next morning, and in an atmosphere of magnanimity he would be able to administer a very necessary reproof.

But now an unpleasant change came over the game. Adams began to play his shots with a new certainty; he made a break of 19, and then one of 35. Directly the balls ran awkwardly he closed the game up with a safety shot. Tim realized he had been fooled. The knowledge made him angry, and roused all his pertinacity. He still held a substantial advantage and he would win in spite of everything.

He began to play with great care and deliberation, giving back safety for safety. After a little fencing of this kind Tim was surprised to see Adams pick up the balls and spot them. "Here, what are you up to?" he protested.

"I'm spotting 'em," said Adams with a grin. "That was the third consecutive miss, you should have played at a ball that time. . . . Go over and read the rules if you don't believe me."

Tim said nothing, but concentrated the mofe. A little later he fluked an all-round cannon, which left him well placed at the top of the table. He got to 17, and seemed good for some more, when a clatter caused him to miscue. Adams had dropped his cue.

"Here, I'm real sorry," said Adams. "Can't count that; I put you off. Spot 'em and carry on." The generosity was more apparent than real. Tim had lost a good position, and was confronted with the long white loser from hand, a shot he never found easy at the best of times. He was upset, and missed badly. Thereupon Adams took charge, and ran out at 200-162 with an unfinished break of 40 odd.

Tim paid up with as good a grace as he could muster.

"Thanks," said Adams. "You didn't do so badly, but I guess I taught you a thing or two. One has to pay for experience, you know." His grin was familiar and definitely unpleasant.

"Well, I'm going to bed," Tim tried to regain a little authority, as though the whole affair had been a studied condescension. "Put on the cloth and close up, will you, Adams?"

Adams nodded. "All right, you go to bed. Thanks for the game, we must have some more."

Tim went out without replying. (To Be Continued)

How to Make Football Less Dangerous?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., FOOTBALL STANDS at the top of dangerous games. It is over four times as dangerous as professional wrestling, by actual statistics taken year by year. Anybody who has seen modern professional wrestling should get a little inkling of what that means.

There are ten times more injuries in football than in basketball. A number of years ago a definite attempt was made to make football less dangerous by substituting an open game for a closed game. How successful that was can be judged by the fact that the forward pass is the most dangerous play in the game, as about 36 per cent of all injuries occur on this play. The forward pass was the play which was introduced to make football safe.

Returning punts accounts for 10 per cent of all injuries; end around and off tackle for 22 per cent; line plays for 8 per cent; 65 per cent of all injuries occur between the 20-yard line and the end line—in spite of the fact that only 30 per cent of all plays are called in this zone.

Forty-two percent of all injuries were suffered by the tackler; 13 per cent of all injuries were suffered by the blocker; 5 per cent occurred in pile-ups; 15 per cent were suffered by the player tackled, and 11 per cent were the result of players being kicked.

Large Part Preventable

A large part of this is preventable. Most of it occurs in young boys who are on teams inadequately trained and coached, who are taught nothing about protecting themselves, and who are too young to play such a game anyhow. Very few teams, except college teams, have adequate medical attendance. Coaches, rubbers and trainers, in general, are so cocksure with a lot of misinformation that they have accumulated in their careers, that they are dangerous advisers about injuries. When coaches have a good player or star player, they are utterly without conscience as to whether he has been injured or when he is fatigued. Most secondary school teams don't ever have the advice of trainers and rubbers.

Something can be done in the way of changing the rules of the game. The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association recommends return of the post to the goal line and increase of value of the field goal to 4 points. As I said above, 65 per cent of high school injuries occur within the 20-yard line.

Second, it is recommended that a rest period between quarters should be two and possibly three minutes. The rest period between halves should be increased to 15 minutes, the last three minutes to be used as a warming-up period to relieve tension and put the players in better mental and physical condition for the second half. It is thought that this might relieve the numerous injuries occurring on kick-off plays, due to the nervousness and tenseness of the players.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendingen can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

STRENGTH OF NORTHWESTERN AND MINNESOTA TO BE TESTED SATURDAY

BOILERMAKERS, WOLVERINES TO TRY OPPONENTS

Illinois Meets Indiana,
Iowa Plays Wisconsin
In Big Ten

OHIO STATE IS IDLE

Chicago and Princeton Vie in Intersectional

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—(UP)—Northwestern and Minnesota—slim favorites in the Big Ten football campaign—will have to prove their greatness tomorrow or make way for teams who can.

Both Purdue, which challenges Northwestern, and Michigan, which meets the Golden Gophers in a battle for the little brown jug, have dropped close conference games but each is on the way up. Michigan, especially, is due for a boom and may get it tomorrow unless Bernie Bierman at last has fired up Minnesota.

Two homecoming games round out the conference schedule. Illinois plays at Indiana and Iowa goes to Wisconsin. Chicago meets Princeton in an intersectional game at home. Ohio State is idle.

Bierman has shifted his backs so often this week not even the players know who will cry from the start of the season was for a quarterback and it still hasn't been answered. Rudy Gmitro is the likely one.

Janke Back in Line
Michigan will be slightly stronger with Fred Janke back in the line after a whirl at fullback.

Northwestern's problem is to throttle Purdue's versatile attack, strong against enemy passes and the Wildcats never have been Cecil Isbell of Purdue still is a passing threat although he lost his best receivers, Tom Zachary and Don Powell.

Unless Bob Zuppke has devised a scoring play, Illinois may wind up with another scoreless tie. Indiana outgained Minnesota by two yards, but the Illini stopped Notre Dame.

Wisconsin will have a slight edge over Iowa. The Badgers came out of the Chicago game in fair condition, and the Hawks have been weak offensively all year.

Chicago may surprise Princeton with its first half stand but it lacks necessary reserve strength.

GEYER TO BE ASSISTANT TO WOODWORTH AT U. C.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15—(UP)—Don Geyer, sterling backfield star of last year's Northwestern team, today has been appointed as an assistant coach at the University of Cincinnati.

Geyer was named by Wade (Red) Woodworth, who only Thursday succeeded Russ Cohen as head coach at Cincinnati.

Geyer was second among the individual scorers in the Western conference last season as he paced Northwestern to an undisputed Big Ten Title. This season he has been playing professional ball with the Cincinnati Bengals of the American League.

Woodworth vehemently denied yesterday that Cohen had resigned under threat of a general strike of the Bearcat gridgers.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS AND GASTANAGA TO BATTLE

DETROIT, Oct. 15—(UP)—John Henry Lewis, world light-heavyweight boxing champion, tonight will tackle Isadore Castanaga, Spanish heavyweight, in a non-title, 10-round bout at Olympia.

The bout will mark another attempt by Lewis to rap on the doors of the heavyweight division. He already has defeated several, including Al Ettore.

Indiana Leader

THIS young man has important job to fill, and Coach Bo McMillan of Indiana university believes he has what it takes. The griddler is Frank (Schnozz) Filchok, and he succeeds Vernon Huffman as quarterback of the Hoosiers. Huffman was voted most valuable player in the Big Ten last year. Filchok is an all-around ace.

BILL M'KECHNIE TO MOVE REDS OUT OF CELLAR

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15—(UP)—Bill McKechnie, newly appointed manager of the Cincinnati Reds, today warned the club's owners and fans not to expect the cellar-dwelling team of 1937 to be made into a National league pennant winner overnight.

McKechnie came here yesterday for his initial conference with General Manager Warren Giles and members of the board of directors. He issued his warning at an informal luncheon.

"It would take a miracle to make the Reds into pennant winners next season," McKechnie said. "Don't expect and I certainly won't predict it. I have only one promise to make you at this time, namely, that the Reds will not finish in the cellar again."

McKechnie deplored the frequent boasts made in the Spring that the Reds would take the championship.

Giles made the first public announcement of McKechnie's salary. He said the new pilot would be paid a flat sum of $25,000 annually on his two year contract and then would be given a bonus of $5,000 if the club drew 450,000 fans at home or finished in the first division.

EASTERN ELEVEN'S HOLD CENTER OF GRIDIRON STAGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—(UP)—Eastern football reaches the peak tomorrow when a dozen major-unbeaten, untied teams risk their perfect records in four all-eastern and two intersectional clashes.

While no other section can boast a collision between eleven with unblemished records, the Atlantic seaboard offers this list:

Navy vs. Harvard at Baltimore; Yale vs. Army at New Haven; Fordham vs. Pittsburgh at New York; Cornell vs. Syracuse at Ithaca; Holy Cross vs. Georgia at Boston and Catholic University vs. Detroit at Washington. Dartmouth, 11th undefeated eastern club, apparently has a push-over against Brown, at Providence.

With almost half of the 24 perfect record teams, the East can windup tomorrow night with only four, but if play runs true to form there will be seven left and the East will retain leadership.

The Fordham-Pitt affair is attracting most interest because both are Rose Bowl contenders.

About This And That In Many Sports

The Fact Remains

'Tis been read that Ohio gridgers were victims of breaks, that Amby Schindler of U. S. C. was too tough as a ball carrier, that the officiating was not so hot, and that several other things actually caused the defeat, 13-12, on the West coast last Saturday, but the fact remains that the Bucks actually defeated themselves when they failed to boot their points after touchdown : : : Schindler was good, the weather was hot, the officiating might have been lurid, but teams of Ohio State's caliber are supposed to be able to convert : : : But that was a week ago * * *

15 Predictions

Many Diversions

Sportsmen will find plenty of things to do during Pumpkin Show week : : : There will be the horse-pulling contest, the saddle horse classes, horseshoe pitching, the dog show, and many other events which will provide much entertainment * * *

CONTRACT BRIDGE

NEVER GIVE UP

MANY A CONTRACT which is made would be impossible against double-dummy defense. Fortunately for these declarers, however, the defensive side is playing in the dark and frequently has to guess at the location of missing cards. That is one reason why it is wise, in bridge, to say "Never give up the ship."

Everybody got into the sharp bidding on this deal. South began it with a third hand call of 1-Diamond, whereupon West bid 1-Spade, East 2-Spades, South 4-Clubs, West 4-Spades, North 5-Clubs and West doubled.

The opening lead of the spade K was of course ruffed by South, who saw at once that making his contract was impossible if he lost three tricks in the trump suit. With all of the top three honors out, his only chance consisted in finding two of those in the West hand and a third one singleton in the East.

The club J was led to the second trick, with a hope that West would cover and another honor would pile on top of it from the other defender. When this occurred the contract was safe.

ELKS NAME COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE CELEBRATION OF SILVER ANNIVERSARY

SEYFERT HEADS GROUP OF 13 ON GENERAL PLANS

Two Weeks In February To Be Used By Lodge For Its Observance

INITIATIONS ARRANGED

Columbus Band To Be Guest Wednesday Evening

Circleville lodge of Elks, of which there are 300 members has started to make plans for celebration of its silver anniversary. The organization has set the first two weeks in February for the program, two days each week to be devoted to the observance. A varied program is being considered.

A committee of past exalted rulers and other leading members of the lodge has been appointed to prepare all details for the program. The lodge has appropriated a sum of money sufficient to carry out all arrangements made by the committee.

Max C. Seyfert, Jr., past exalted ruler, has been named chairman of the committee. Other members are Leland E. Pontius, secretary; J. Wallace Crist, treasurer; Ray W. Davis, the present exalted ruler, W. Frank Heffner, Walker Baughman, A. J. Lyle, Charles Dresbach, Edward W. Wittich, John G. Boggs, Fred Brunner, William D. Radcliff, and Dr. H. D. Jackson.

Chartered in 1887 the lodge was given its charter in July 1887, but the organization was actually formed in February of that year, thus the celebration being scheduled that month.

Several classes of candidates will be initiated during the next few months, numerous applications having been read already in the lodge sessions. The first initiation will be held late in November. Exalted Ruler Davis has announced.

The lodge is planning a buffet lunch next Wednesday evening for the Columbus Elks lodge symphonic band, which will play in the parade and offer a concert on the first night of the Pumpkin Show. Accompany the band will be Nathan McCoy, Jr., its manager; Col. C. W. Wallace, veteran secretary of the Columbus lodge; David Morgan, exalted ruler, and numerous other leaders in the antlered herd.

STATE OFFICIAL GRILLS OUTLAW IN INDIANAPOLIS

Confession Made After Bangor, Me., Shooting Discounted Friday

guards after bond was set at $50,000. Availability of a good witness indicated he probably would be tried for the Minneman slaying. The witness was Sheriff Elmer Craig who was with Minneman when they were ambushed after the Goodland bank robbery May 25.

Rivers was slain when the outlaws fled a police trap at the home of an Indianapolis physician where they brought Charles Geisinger to be treated for a bullet wound received in an Ohio holdup. Levy was a victim of the nationwide chase for the outlaw band whose leader, Al Brady, had announced he would make John Dillinger "look like a piker."

Dalhover bore the marks of his capture as heavily armed agents unloaded him from a plane and rushed him to his arraignment yesterday. He was beaten and bruised in a struggle with officers in a Bangor, Me., hardware store. Geisinger, fourth member of the gang, was captured previously and is serving a robbery sentence in the Ohio state prison.

Dalhover was quoted in an Indianapolis Times' copyrighted story as saying that Brady was deposed as leader after Geisinger's capture. The three outlaws cast votes for every move, and followed desires of the majority, Dalhover said.

GHOST

And if any further proof was needed of the ghost, Mrs. Barrare had her wounds to testify to her brush with something that either shoved her or made her jump from the 25-foot high ledge. She was picked up, semi-conscious, from the ground below the fire escape landing that abuts her apartment window yesterday. This was her story:

"We have been haunted by the ghost a long time, my husband and I. Felix, my husband, who's a butcher, has heard it too.

"It creeps up and rings the doorbell. When we jump to the door and open it quickly, no one's there. 'Many times we have heard footsteps padding down the hall. We've flung open the door when the steps are right in front of our apartment, but nothing's there. This happened three times Tuesday night."

"Yesterday Felix was at work and I stepped out onto the fire escape to bring in the baby's clothes which were drying there. I felt a chilly breath on the back of my neck, as if someone had opened the ice box door: I knew right then it was the ghost."

"I turned around and there she was, towering behind me. Her eyes gleamed like green fire and flashed off and on. It was a tall gaunt-faced woman, unearthly. I took just one look and that's all I remember."

Felix, who has heard the ghost but hasn't seen it, and hopes that he isn't home when it does call, believed his wife's story implicitly. Police hospital surgeons had two theories, eliminating the ghost: Mrs. Barrare has a "very vivid imagination," or somebody is playing a jest on her.

He Held the Fort

PRESSURE of official duties forced J. Hall Paxton, second secretary of the United States Embassy at Nanking, to go on a whiskey campaign. But behind that spinach is a man whom the Japanese air force with all its bombs couldn't scare. Paxton stayed at his post during the evacuation of the embassy staff.

The importance of Minorca lies not only in that it is fortified, because Majorca is fortified also, but that it is probably the most important of the whole group. The Loyalists now hold it. The Mediterranean situation began to get really acute again only when it was reported that the Italians were going to attack it. Minorca's Port Mahon has one of the finest harbors in the Mediterranean while the island itself is rocky and inaccessible.
